STREET GUIDE
City of Toronto

EXPLANATION

The names of all the city streets are printed in bold faced type, followed immediately by a letter and number in brackets. These latter refer to the location of the street on the city map.

Street numbers alternate from one side of the street to the other. On all streets running east and west the odd numbers are on the south side of the street, and the even on the north side. On all streets running north and south the odd numbers are on the east side and the even on the west side.

Yonge street is the dividing line of the city.

All streets running north and south number from the point nearest to the bay, and of those running east and west from that nearest the dividing line of the city, namely, Yonge street.

Where no numbers are given at cross streets the streets named are not opened through.

In connection with every street the car lines which run on it or on the nearest cross street, are given by numbers, the figure or figures given designating the particular line or lines, such figures referring to the list of car lines inside front cover. If there is no car line on the street or cross street, that on the nearest street is given.
